FAMILY LIFE INSURANCE

One policy, one premium, one secure family

Your family always comes first, and you'd do anything to make sure they're always cared for, whatever the future may bring. So how can you make sure...

- Your family would be cared for if something happened to either you or your spouse?
- Your children could get the life coverage they'll need when they're older?

Life insurance with State Farm can help secure your family's financial future if you aren't there. This is family life coverage made simple. Instead of dealing with separate policies, you can get life coverage for your whole family with just one policy. Just add the riders that fit your needs. It's more affordable than purchasing separate policies for each family member.

Life just got even better

Life insurance is usually thought of as something for the spouse who is the breadwinner. If that person dies, then the life insurance benefit would help provide for the family. The mortgage may still get paid; the kids may still go to college.

Life coverage is no less important for the spouse who stays home, works part-time, or makes less money. A life insurance benefit may help pay for childcare, housekeeping, meals, and other services your family can't do without.

Life insurance is even important for the kids. Getting them covered at a young age will help ensure they have the coverage in the future. They can convert the coverage as adults, even if they later develop health problems that would otherwise make them uninsurable.

Now you can rest assured that whatever the future brings, your loved ones' financial security may be protected.

Basic facts: State Farm Family Life Insurance

Talk to your agent to see which policy makes sense for you. Once you or your spouse is covered by either a State Farm Select Term or Whole Life insurance policy, just add one (or both) of these riders to protect the rest of your family.

- Select Term Rider: Provides insurance to age 95 with a premium that will remain level for 10, 20, or 30 years depending on the coverage you choose. The rider is available on both the insured and an additional insured and can be converted to a permanent policy if lifetime coverage is needed. Minimum coverage is $100,000.
- Children's Term Rider: Add this to cover your children. Just one rider can provide up to $20,000 in coverage for each child in your family, including children yet to be born. So as your family grows, your children are automatically covered. You can convert this rider at expiration of coverage to any available policy to provide lifetime coverage for each child.
